A NOTE FROM OUR FAMILY

Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year!

Can you believe we're already closing out the year? With just a few weeks left, it's hard to believe how quickly 2025 has flown by. As we reflect on the past year, our hearts are full of gratitude. Our real estate business stayed busy throughout the year, and we are truly thankful for each of you who referred, trusted, and supported us along the way — we couldn't do this without you.

We know many of you may have questions about the current market. Buyers are still actively searching for their next home, but they're taking a bit more time and being more intentional — a sign that the market has settled into a healthier, more "normal" pace. This creates opportunities on both sides, and we're always here to help guide you through it.

Whether you're wrapping up the school semester, traveling for the holidays, or enjoying some cozy downtime at home, we hope this season brings you rest, joy, and time with the people who matter most.

As we look ahead to the new year, we're excited for what's to come and grateful to walk alongside you in all your real estate goals.

Wishing you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year!

WHAT'S HAPPENING??

The Greater Sacramento housing market continues to show signs of balance as we wrap up the year. After several years of intense competition and rapid price growth, conditions have shifted toward a more sustainable, normalized pace where both buyers and sellers need to be strategic.

Inventory & Buyer Options

Inventory remains elevated compared to last year, even with the typical seasonal slowdown in the winter. Buyers have more choices now than they have in recent cycles, which has softened the urgency that dominated the pandemic and early post-pandemic markets. This improved selection gives buyers greater negotiating power and more time to consider options.

Price Trends

Home prices across Sacramento and surrounding cities have mostly stabilized. While some areas have seen slight year-over-year dips of about 1-3%, others are holding steady. In Sacramento proper, median sale prices are generally in the upper-$400,000s to low-$500,000s, reflecting a modest cooling rather than a dramatic downturn. Seasonal market effects can contribute to smaller pricing shifts this time of year.

Days on Market

Homes are spending more time on the market than they did during the peak frenzy. Where listings once went pending in just 1-2 weeks, the current average days on market now commonly falls between 30-50 days, depending on price range and neighborhood. Slower turnover gives buyers breathing room, but also means sellers need to prepare for longer marketing periods.

Price Reductions & Pricing Strategy

Price reductions are more common than in past seller-dominant cycles, particularly for listings that start above market value. Homes that sell quickly tend to share common features: competitive pricing from day one, strong presentation, professional photos, and minimal deferred maintenance. The "list high and wait" strategy is less effective today.

What It Means for Buyers & Sellers

- Buyers: Greater selection, less competition, and more opportunity to negotiate on price, repair credits, and terms.
- Sellers: Success hinges on realistic pricing, excellent preparation, and understanding current buyer expectations.

Looking Ahead

Expect the market to remain stable heading into early 2026, without dramatic swings. This phase isn't a crash — it's a recalibration after years of rapid appreciation and constrained supply. Whether you're buying, selling, or planning for the future, understanding today's trends will help you make smart decisions in the months ahead.
